Regulation Statement

The universities (academic institutions) of The Texas A&M University System (system) may recommend that the Board of Regents (board) grant faculty development leave designed to enable a faculty member to engage in study, research, writing and similar projects for the purpose of adding to the knowledge available to the faculty member, the students and academic institution, and society. Academic institutions shall administer faculty development leave in accordance with the statutory requirements implemented by this regulation.

Reason for Regulation

This regulation implements the provisions of Chapter 51, Subchapter C, of the Texas Education Code which establishes faculty development leave programs at state-supported colleges and universities.

Procedures and Responsibilities

1. This regulation applies to academic institutions.

2. Funding

Payment of salary to a faculty member on development leave may be made from funds appropriated by the legislature specifically for that purpose or from such other funds as might be available to the academic institution.

3. Eligibility and Requirements

3.1 "Faculty member" as used in this regulation means a person who is employed on a full-time basis as a member of the faculty and whose duties include teaching, research, administration, including professional librarians, or the performance of professional services.

- 3.2 A faculty member is eligible by reason of service to be considered for faculty development leave when the faculty member has served as a member of the faculty of the same academic institution for at least two consecutive academic years. This service may be as an instructor or as an assistant, associate or full professor, or an equivalent rank, and must be full-time academic duty, but need not include teaching.
- 3.3 Faculty development leave may be granted for study, research, writing, field observations or other suitable purposes.
- 3.4 Applications for faculty development leave shall be evaluated by a committee elected by the general faculty and recommended to the academic institution's chief executive officer (CEO). The CEO shall make recommendations to the chancellor who shall make recommendations to the board for approval prior to the effective date of leave.
- 3.5 The board may grant faculty development leave to a faculty member either for one academic year at one-half the faculty member's regular salary or for one-half academic year at the faculty member's full salary. Leave may be granted for a full year at full salary for a faculty member who has held an administrative position at the academic institution for more than four years.
- 3.6 A faculty member on faculty development leave may accept a grant for study, research or travel from any institution of higher education; from a charitable, religious or educational corporation or foundation; from any business enterprise; or from any federal, state or local governmental agency, if acceptance does not violate any system policy. An accounting of all grants must be made by the faculty member through normal channels to the board.
- 3.7 A faculty member on faculty development leave may not accept employment from any other person, corporation or government, unless the board determines that it would be in the public interest to do so and expressly approves the employment.
- 3.8 A member of the faculty on faculty development leave retains the right of participating in the programs and receiving the benefits made available to faculty members by or through the system or the state of Texas.
- 3.9 Not more than six percent of the faculty members of any academic institution may be on faculty development leave at any one time.
